

*Wishes
So many wishes
He had so many wishes
Wishes for land and for ocean
He takes them with him
All those wishes*

*What can you say...
...when you know the end is coming due to illness*

*What can you do...
...when life takes you down an irreversible path*

*You suffered in dignified silence, never complaining
Fought to the end, while your days were waning
You had to acknowledge a mightier foe, despite your will to live
But you never gave up, and even at the end kept the initiative*

Grieving, but with wonderful memories, we are forced to farewell my sweet and caring husband, our father and my father in law
